Guide for DLA dissertation and masterwork

Moholy-Nagy University of Art and Design Budapest

Qualification and Dissertation Requirements for DLA doctoral degree in Architecture, Design or Multimedia Art

1. The dissertation should inform about the candidate's research and academic/artistic discoveries. The dissertation describes the process of the research as the background behind the masterwork and/or the creation process of the masterwork itself.

Character number of the dissertation should be between 100.000 and 300.000 useful characters (without pictures, appendix, footnotes)

2. The masterwork is an own and original creation, which demonstrates a high quality of professional knowledge.

3. The dissertation should contain:

- the antecedents of the work, the introduction of previous examples from others and from the candidate's own practice, with the thorough application and proper use of the literature of the research field (references, quotations, etc.)
- the origins and reasons for the dissertation, the description of the research (problems, process, evaluations, findings) and the theoretical background of the masterwork (on the level it is possible to verbalise it)
- the description of the experiments about materials, structures, ergonomics, colours and forms during the creation of the masterwork
- the creator's concept and program behind the masterwork
- the artistic value, feasibility, and applicability of the masterwork
- the statement of originality of the dissertation and the masterwork
- the list of other participants throughout the process (if applicable)
- the photo documentation of the masterwork in a way that it makes it understandable even without actual contact and the location of the original masterwork.
